

VIA BEATA

A way of blessing

Little Stukeley way-station

This relief panel was designed and carved by members of the Seven Cs Community Project in Norwich.

At the time that it was made, many of them were struggling with addiction of one sort or another.

The words on the right hand panel are from John Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress, and speak of the joy that Christian found when his burden fell from his shoulders at the cross of Jesus.

The Via Beata was launched in the Summer of 2009.

It is on course to become a complete trail of Christian artworks stretching across the UK from East to West at its widest point.

Artworks which communicate the Christian Gospel are being commissioned and set up in situations where people can stop and meditate upon them.
